

CODED BIAS

THERE IS NO ALGORITHM FOR TRUTH

Online screening

... of the documentary “Coded Bias” and discussion in the framework of the Zukunftskolleg event series “Racism in Academia”

Tuesday, 19th January 2021, 19:00, via Zoom/watchpage

In cooperation with Zebra-Kino Konstanz

When MIT Media Lab researcher Joy Buolamwini discovers that most facial-recognition software misidentifies women and darker-skinned faces, she is compelled to investigate further. Centering on the voices of women leading the charge to ensure our civil rights are protected, Coded Bias asks two key questions: what is the impact of Artificial Intelligence’s increasing role in governing our liberties? And what are the consequences for people stuck in the crosshairs due to their race, color, and gender?

Women Make Movies

Speakers:

- Sarah Chander, AI and non-discrimination (European Digital Rights, Brussels)
- Asanda Saule Ngoasheng, gender and racial justice activist (Centre for Rights and Justice, University of Sussex)
- Violeta Ivanova-Rohling, machine learning and quantum computing (Zukunftskolleg, University of Konstanz)

Registration:

Please register for this event until Monday, 18th January, by emailing antiracism.events@uni-konstanz.de (put “Coded Bias: Registration” in the subject line) to receive the link to the watchpage and Zoom room. The event will start at 19:00 in the Zoom room provided on the watchpage.

Download the entire programme of the series:

